Learn about our Cookies

Cookies are small text files that are stored in your computer and then saved by your browser. Used to collect data, cookies help make our website more user friendly, more effective and safer for you.

Cookies do lots of different jobs such as letting you navigate between pages efficiently, remembering your preferences, and ensuring that adverts you see online are more relevant to your interests. Without cookies many areas of functionality, such as user logins, shopping baskets and other customisation features, will not work.

Cookies cannot be attributed to a particular person and do not contain any personal information. Most cookies are deleted once you conclude your browser session. Additionally, there are some long-life cookies that enable us to recognise you as a returning visitor.

Cookies do not cause any harm to your computer and do not contain any viruses. You can change your cookie settings should you prefer not to accept the use of cookies on our websites.

You can find more information about cookies at www.allaboutcookies.org and www.youronlinechoices

The table below explains the cookies that we use and why:

Cookie	Name	Purpose
Cookie Preference	.AspNet.Consent	This cookie is used to remember your preference for accepting the use of cookies
Antiforgery Cookie	.AspNetCore.Antiforgery	This cookie is used to prevent Cross-Site Request Forgery attacks.
Authentication Cookie	.AspNetCore.Cookies	This cookie is used to authenticate the user. It contains a unique identifier for the user.
Notification Cookie	.AspNetCore.Mvc.CookieTempDataProvider	This cookie is used to show validation messages, toast messages, and flash messages.

You can block cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of our site. Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, our system will issue cookies as soon you visit our site.
